

EPISODE 3

Future planning & the law

Turning recovery support into long-term security

TAC compensation can go beyond immediate medical bills; it's designed to help people rebuild their lives and plan for the future. Law Partners works closely with medical experts to forecast ongoing care needs, ensuring no one is left out-of-pocket down the track.

Planning ahead

Lump sum claims can cover future costs like home modifications, care needs, and income loss.

Common law claims may include compensation for pain, suffering, and reduced earning capacity.

Good legal advice helps make short-term payments part of a lifelong recovery plan.

You can learn more here about how TAC benefits and entitlements are calculated.

Choosing the right legal help

When looking for a lawyer, choose someone who:

- Specialises in TAC and Victorian road injury claims.
- Listens and understands your personal story.
- Offers free initial advice and no win, no fee support.

Emerging issues

New forms of transport like e-scooters and rideshare services are changing the legal landscape, while distracted driving and trauma-related psychological claims are on the rise. Education, advocacy, and awareness, championed by Amber Community, remain vital in keeping Victorians safe.

Key takeaway

The right combination of expert legal guidance and community support can make a lifelong difference after road trauma.
